

Cause of Release - When will the cause of the release be shared?

There are many variables that will come into play in determining the cause of the accidental release.

The affected section of the pipeline has to be removed and sent off for metallurgical examination before a determination is made. This examination and the results could take anywhere from days to a few weeks to be determined.