

Sierra Nevada Bighorn Sheep Citizen Science

Sierra Nevada Bighorn Sheep Recovery Program

California Department of Fish & Wildlife

Sierra Nevada bighorn sheep live only in the Sierra Nevada Mountains. To monitor them throughout the whole mountain range, we need your help. If you see any of these endangered bighorn, please email your observations to asksnbs@wildlife.ca.gov or call the CDFW Bishop office, 760-872-1171.

Any details you can give about your observations are helpful, and pictures are welcome. Please give the date/time/precise location of the sighting, as well as any details you can on bighorn sighted— number of animals, collars/eartags seen (give colors), sex, and age category (lamb-adult).

All bighorn sheep have horns, even young lambs, but adult rams have significantly larger horns than ewes. Note the yellow right eartag on the ewe, above, and the red right eartag on the ram, right. Eartag color and configuration are how we identify individual sheep. Collar color and size are other helpful clues.
