All data and images gathered by the ALPR are for the official use of this department. Because such data may contain confidential information, it is not open to public review.

431.3 ADMINISTRATION

The ALPR technology, also known as License Plate Recognition (LPR), allows for the automated detection of license plates. It is used by the California Department of Fish and Wildlife Law Enforcement Division to convert data associated with vehicle license plates for official law enforcement purposes, including, but not limited to, wildlife trafficking investigations, identifying stolen or wanted vehicles, stolen license plates and missing persons. It may also be used to gather information including but not limited to, information related to active investigations, active warrants, homeland security, electronic surveillance, suspect interdiction, and stolen property recovery.

All installation and maintenance of ALPR equipment, as well as ALPR data retention and access, shall be managed by the Technology Assistant Chief. The Technology Assistant Chief will assign members under their command to administer the day-to-day operation of the ALPR equipment and data. All procurement, access, data, equipment, installation, and maintenance of the ALPR system shall be administered by the California Department of Fish and Wildlife Law Enforcement Division (LED).
