About the Training

The Interagency Ecological Program (IEP) is hosting 1-day training diving into the fundamentals of metadata and data publication best practices! This course is designed for data collectors, managers, and analysts of any experience level who want to better understand how data can be made more usable and useful.

What You'll Learn

Power of Metadata: The key to making your data as usable and useful as possible

EML Demystified: Effective metadata is hard but Ecological Metadata Language can help

FAIR Principles in Action: Learn the benefits of findable, accessible, interoperable, and reusable data

EDI, Your Data's New Home: A purposely built repository to enhance and preserve the utility of your dataset

IEP Support Along the Way: Learn about tools, templates, and expert guidance opportunities to support your data management journey

Cultivating a Data Stewardship Culture: Become a part of a growing community of data stewards in IEP, working to enable the potential of our datasets

Training Schedule
