

Are Your Chickens Safe from Bears?

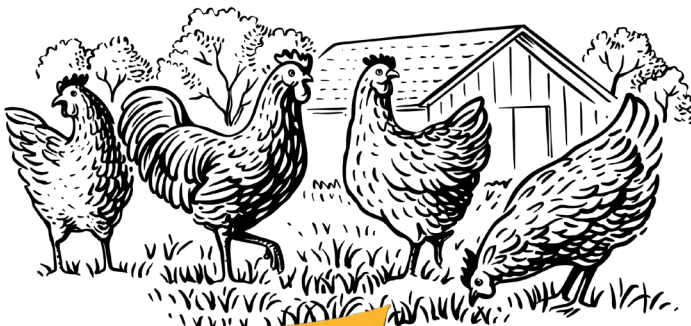

Chicken Coops & Chicken Wire Are No Match for Bears

Bears that help themselves to easy chicken dinners often pay with their lives ... just for being hungry.

Don't Wait Until It's Too Late

Haven't had any issues? You will. More than 11 million households with backyard poultry give hungry wildlife excellent odds of finding dinner when they go exploring.

Be BearWise®... Protect Your Flock

- Choose a sturdy coop with a strong roof.
- Locate your coop away from overhanging trees and dense cover. Keep the area around the coop and chicken runs free of other attractants and hiding places.
- Use electric fencing around the coop and chicken runs, powered up 24/7.
- Lock all access doors and windows in the chicken coop at night.
- Store feed in bear-resistant containers or inside a sturdy, locked building (not the coop). Plastic tubs won't keep bears out.

Thanks for doing your part to keep chickens safe and bears wild.
