

An excavated underground chamber that is open to the surface, where minerals and ore are extracted.