What do we find important for recovering and sustaining healthy sagebrush habitat? Ecological features that are found to be most critical to sustain healthy sagebrush habitat in this region are:

- Area and extent
- Community structure and composition
- Successional dynamics
- Fire Regimes
- Weather Regime
- Soil and sediment structure and chemistry

Degraded ecological conditions that are found to be impacting the sagebrush habitat in this region are:

- Change in temperature
- Change in precipitation
- Change in snow period
- Changes in extreme events
  - Change in natural fire regime
  - Changes in soil moisture
- Changes in community structure and composition
- Loss or change in biotic interactions
- Change in successional processes or ecosystem
- Habitat fragmentation

Human related activities and issues that are found to be sources of potential impacts to the sagebrush habitat are:

- Problematic Native Species
- Invasive plants & animals
- Housing and Urban Areas
- Dams & Water Management/Use
- Renewable Energy Development and Operations
- Utility & Service Lines
- Recreational activities
- Annual & Perennial Non-Timber Crops
- Incompatible Livestock Farming and Ranching
- Fire and Fire Suppression
