1.0 Introduction

On May 6, 2014 the Wolf-Livestock Interactions Subgroup (WLIS) of the California Wolf Stakeholder Working Group (SWG) convened in the Conference Room of the California Department of Fish and Wildlife Branch Office in Sacramento. This was the eighth meeting of the WLIS, which was established to assist the California Department of Fish and Wildlife (CDFW, Department) in developing recommendations on a consensus-driven framework of management strategies for effectively dealing with potential wolf impacts on California's livestock populations.

2.0 Meeting Objectives and Mechanics

The purpose of the meeting was to continue building consensus through discussion of potential topics for inclusion in a Wolf-Livestock Interactions chapter in the California Wolf Plan.

The primary objective of the meeting was to discuss a proposed Phase 1 Wolf-Livestock Depredation Strategy.

The meeting was attended in person by five stakeholders and three CDFW staff, with two additional stakeholders attending via conference line. Appendix A provides a list of participants, their affiliations, and their contact information. In addition, one legislative representative attended in person, and one via conference line. Appendix B provides those individual's names. Finally, also attending via conference line was Mr. Sam Magill, who will be the meeting facilitator once the contract with his company Kearns and West is finalized.

3.0 Meeting Outputs

Introductions and Housekeeping

Attendees introduced themselves for the benefit of the members attending via conference line. Then Ms. Kovacs informed the group that she had an appointment scheduled that afternoon with Director Bonham to convey stakeholders' concerns about the timeframe for plan completion, and would send an email to the SWG with the results of that conversation. Another update was a document she received from U.S.D.A. Wildlife Services having to do with the passage of the Farm Bill, which included compensation for livestock losses from federally listed species. One member asked whether the Department plans to circulate to the SWG the edited version of the Wolf-Livestock Interactions chapter that contains comments as provided by the Wolf-Livestock subgroup, to which Mr. Stopher explained that those comments have been incorporated where appropriate, and he expects the SWG to have another opportunity to view it once he and Ms. Kovacs have reviewed it again. A draft of a diseases chapter had been produced and it will also be provided to the SWG for review.

Comments and Corrections on April 9, 2014 Meeting Report

No comments were offered.

Review/Discuss CDFW Livestock Conflict Concept

Mr. Stopher led the group in a discussion of the first draft of a proposed Phase 1 Wolf-livestock Depredation Strategy (Appendix D), and a related email he drafted to the group (Appendix E). WLIS members made specific suggestions to clarify portions of the document, and also asked clarifying questions about general aspects of the concept. All portions of the document were discussed with the exception of Items M-Q, and Mr. Stopher asked the group to send any additional questions or comments to him by May 13.

Summary and Wrap-up

The next meeting is scheduled for May 20, and it was agreed to schedule a subsequent meeting for two weeks after. It was decided to meet on June 3, from 11am to 2pm in Redding.

Action Items

- Forward the document from Wildlife Services referencing compensation for livestock depredations by federally listed species in the Farm Bill
- Ms. Lauren Richie will send a link to the website of the Mexican Wolf Coexistence Council
- Change “agricultural Extension” to “Cooperative Extension” in Item D-3 of the proposed Phase 1 Wolf-livestock Depredation Strategy document
- Stakeholders will provide additional comments or suggestions to Mr. Stopher by May 13, 2014.

EMAIL FROM MR. STOPHER TO STAKEHOLDERS 5/2/14

Members

I've been considering how to move forward with development of the strategy to include in the Wolf Plan and I have a proposal. Actually, it is not a proposal in the sense that term is usually used. I intend to provide to you a moderately detailed concept for the purpose of generating a dialogue and a proposal that CDFW can put in the first draft of the plan, by the end of May. Consider the following:

First, I suggest that under conditions today, implementation of a wolf plan will require funding, regulations and commitments that do not, or may not, currently exist. And I don't think those current limitations should prevent CDFW, and the SWG, from advocating for a plan that will be successful only with new commitments (again, of funding, authority and effort). I think that is how we have to approach this or we won't be able to say what is needed.

Second, we lack the foreknowledge of when, where and how many wolves will become established in, for example, the next ten years in California. Consequently I suggest we consider a Phase I strategy for the first ten years, or until 4 successful breeding pairs are documented in California. Based on the Oregon and Washington experiences, those two objectives may occur about the same time. Phase I would end when either objective is reached and I am assuming that process will occur at a rate that will allow development of a Phase II informed by experiences in the interim and other new information.

Third, we cannot predict or control status under the Federal ESA or CESA so I suggest that the strategy not be dependent on either.

Fourth, I propose that we consider a strategy for wolf-livestock interactions which does not require defining landscape management units or wolf population objectives. We may do that under the topic of conservation objectives, but I am not, in the moment, convinced that the wolf-livestock management strategy must fold that in.

I will share this concept with you Monday morning (it still needs work) along with an agenda for the Tuesday meeting. However, you can expect that this topic will be the principal suggested agenda item.

To be clear, I am not committed irrevocably to the concept I will share and it represents only an approach which I have generated to facilitate getting to a proposal which has a chance of being supported by the SWG. It has not been vetted through CDFW's wolf team yet. I've considered the elements each caucus provided as part of a strategy, our joint fact finding and conversations I've had with most of you.

Finally, given that this will be provided as the Department's initial formulation of a strategy which will certainly evolve in our dialogue, it will not be helpful to broadcast this indiscriminately or misrepresent this as the Department's position. I will appreciate your discretion in this.
