keep my pH balanced

Our all time favorite

Hundreds upon hundreds of people are keeping dry and nudging their neighbors' awareness with our Acid Rain Umbrella. Sturdy tan nylon with the cheery "pH 5.6" raindrop in bright blue, a real wood handle and a big 50" spread. Windproof, so it can turn inside out without damage.

The Original Acid Rain Umbrella $15.00

In a new size

By popular demand our Acid Rain Umbrella now comes in a compact fold-up model. Only 14" long when closed, so it fits easily in purses, briefcases and daypacks. An oversized 42" when open. The "pH 5.6" mascot and same message as "the original" in blue printing on tan fabric.

The Folding Acid Rain Umbrella $13.00

How To Order: Figure your shipping charges with the chart below and include with order. VISA, MasterCard, checks and money orders accepted. (Canada residents: Please send money orders in US currency and double shipping costs). Phone orders welcome with credit cards.

Features

- 7 Muddy waters
A letter from the editors
- 10 It came from beneath Long Island
by Janet Marinelli
New York's sprawling suburbia sits on top of a water table contaminated by toxic chemicals, like other aquifers around the country where groundwater hasn't been protected.
- 13 Dry gulched
by Rick Piltz
Texas politicians are dreaming up costly schemes to import water to the parched Southwest rather than concentrating on wiser management of the Ogalalla Aquifer.
- 16 It's time to clean up our "act"
by Francesca Lyman
The Clean Water Act has gone a long way toward cleaning up the most visible pollutants but has yet to address the hazards of toxics.
- 20 A river runs through it
by Peter Berg
Unless we take a fresh look at our own local watersheds, we won't be able to crack the complex problems of water shortages and pollution.

- 22 The good, the bad and the ugly
by Richard Asinof
Everyone needs to know more about what's in the water they drink, even if it seems to taste good enough.
- 26 Dow and dirty
by Andy Feeney and Jim Jubak
The Dow Chemical Company continues to dump dioxin and forty other toxic chemicals into a Michigan river and its clout has stymied all attempts to protect public health.
- 30 Pooling resources
A compendium of useful booklets, films and other sources of information on groundwater pollution, surface water pollution, acid rain, water conservation and preservation of wild and scenic rivers.

Departments

- 2 Feedback
- 4 Econotes
Champagne on Clinch; happy trails; make jobs, not war; what's good enough for national parks; the nuclear court
- 32 What to do
