Dear Dan:

Lower Felt Lake

I believe our Lily Pond poisoning job was only partially effective. The lilies are still there and look healthy. A large quantity of duckweed was killed, and there seems to be more open water than last year. However, there is live duckweed in the pond which may take over again. Any planting would of course be purely experimental, but I would like to see a few hundred tried. Let me know if I can help.

Sincerely,

Dean Lloyd
